Meet the future Habitat homeowners:

Nicole and her 5-year-old daughter, Jasmine—lovingly called Jazzy—share a bond rooted in love, resilience, and hope. Born and raised in Mesa, Arizona, Nicole has overcome significant challenges, while working full-time and raising Jazzy on her own. Together, they make the most of their small studio apartment, enjoying movie nights, Barbie playtime, church activities, swimming when they can, and baking Christmas cookies. Nicole is concerned about their safety due to recent attempted break-ins and violent incidents in their neighborhood.

Nicole and Jasmine's dream is to have a home of their own with a room for Jazzy, and maybe even a puppy. This dream felt distant—until one day, Nicole spotted the Habitat for Humanity logo on a calendar at work. Trusting her instincts, which she calls "destiny," she reached out to inquire about their homeownership program.

Reflecting on this pivotal moment, Nicole shares, "Habitat for Humanity has changed my life. Thank God there is a program like this!"

Jasmine, who says she wants to be a doctor someday, is now in kindergarten and the strength and stability of an affordable homes means she is more than twice as likely to pursue a secondary education when that time comes. As they embark on this new journey with Habitat for Humanity Central Arizona, Nicole and Jazzy are closer than ever to turning their dream into reality. Each step forward brings them nearer to a home filled with love, growth, and countless new memories.

Nicole and Jazzy's story exemplifies the transformative power of community and hope, showing how Habitat for Humanity is building not just houses, but treasured homes.

"Never take your eyes off the life you envision. With God, hard work, and determination, you can move mountains!"
